

About Olu Igbo

Olu Igbo is a peer-reviewed research journal devoted to the promotion of excellence in high-quality empirical researches and strong conceptual papers. It publishes scholarly articles in the broad areas of language, literature, culture, arts, humanities, education, science and Igbo studies in general. It is a platform meant to capture the centrality of the collective interest of Igbo people; it is created to provide an intellectual meeting-point for scholars and researchers to interact and answer questions surrounding Igbo identity and destiny, in order to explore, reconcile with the reality and add value to our society. This, we hope, will expand the intellectual horizon of students, lecturers, academics and Igbo people at large, thereby providing broad-based, people-oriented and self-reliant education.

Authors are encouraged to write in Igbo, English, French, German, Russian, and Chinese provided the article has Igbo contents.

Copyright

Submission of manuscripts to Olu Igbo implies that authors have met the requirements of the editorial policy and publication ethics. Authors retain the copyright of their articles published in the journal.

Review Policy

Olu Igbo adopts a blind review policy, which may involve conference editing by editorial board members and or appointed review editors or both.

Plagiarism

Olu Igbo Editorial Board takes issues of copyright infringement, plagiarism or other breaches of best practice in publication very seriously. The Board protects the rights of our authors and we always investigate claims of plagiarism or misuse of published articles. Equally, we seek to protect the reputation of the journal against malpractice. Submitted articles may be checked with duplication-checking software.
